DEDICATION

We, the seniors, dedicate this book to these stairs,
Many's the footsteps they have seen and shall see.
We have used them as a final step in learning and social flares,
We leave them now to the future seniors-to-be.

L.J. EKDAHL

SUPERINTENDENT

To the Class of 1959:

Congratulations to you, the Senior Class of 1959, for reaching a milestone in your life -- the ending of your high school career.

This annual, which depicts the events of your last year in high school, will become a bridge back into the past as you go through life.

For most of you this annual will take you back to pleasant memories. Memories of good times, fine friends, and many happy experiences.

From these experiences, and others, you have developed ways of feeling, thinking, and acting which determine your conduct. Your conduct shows the values you live by. These values are a true measure of you.

Since you started in the kindergarten or first grade, the purpose of many of your school experiences has been to teach you social conduct and values to enable you to get along well with others.

I urge you now as you leave high school to live by these values you have developed. I urge you to stand for something. Believe in something. Think well of yourself; conduct yourself so that you can do so. Act in ways which will command the respect of others. Establish a few things you will always do; a certain few things you will never do. Above all, have the courage to live in accordance with your own values and convictions.

Congratulations again, and good luck!

L. J. Ekdaahl

BOARD OF EDUCATION

To the class of 1959:

As young American men and women you have responsibilities to fulfill to your fellow Americans and to that system of democratic government that has made possible these twelve years of liberal education that you have completed. I sincerely hope that the Dorchester High School has helped to enable you to meet successfully the obligations of our society.

As you leave school to take jobs, or to acquire higher education, remember this double obligation: to cherish our American heritage--the heritage about which you have learned at the Dorchester Public Schools--and to look to the future doing your part to make that future secure and successful for all Americans.

All of us on the faculty of the Dorchester Schools wish you every success in whatever you endeavor to do.
