Class Poem

We are the class of '54
Of whom the teachers all adore
The girls are outnumbered six to four
All have had good times galore.

The president of our class is Noel
A pretty miss is his goal
In his Chevy he does ride
If you see him coming--better hide.

Next is Ardis, the head of the class
And indeed a popular young lass
To Paris now she wants to roam
And later make Montana her home.

Here comes a mighty Oldsmobile
And look who is at the wheel
It's Dale, the athlete of our class
Always sure to have a pretty lass.

Our tall, dark miss is Chere
Someday she will probably marry
She's always jolly and full of pep
As a majorette she's never out of step.

Myrna Hansen, better known as "Mert"
Was never known to be a flirt
In the future she will go to college
Where she hopes to gain some knowledge.

Loren is an industrious lad
And you'll never see him sad
At crossword puzzles he likes to work
When at work, he'll never shirk.

The short blonde is Rose Marie
Someday a nurse she wants to be
If ever her patient you will be
May the Good Lord be with Thee.

The smallest lad of our class is Val
No one could find a better pal
He does his work with all his might
And 9/10 ths of the time he's right.

The wind is blowing, the leaves do fall
Guess who's coming--it is Paul
He can't get his Pontiac to fly
So next a jet plane he will buy.

Last on our list is Roger Clark
A jolly young fellow, he likes to spark
He likes to sing for all to hear
And attracts girls from far and near.

Now you've met us, one and all
We hope you'll miss us when it's fall
We really owe a lot to you--
You, the teachers, who helped us through.
